1. On 30 August 1951 TENG Tzu-hui, vice chairman of the Central and South China Military and Administrative Committee, arrived in Canton from Hankow by military plane, accompanied by two Chinese Communist senior staff officers of the Central and South China Military Area (CSCMA) Command and one Soviet adviser. They were met at White Cloud Airfield by YEH Chien-ying, WU K'o-hua, and FANG Fang. A military conference was held in the map room of the Kwangtung Military District Command from 10:30 p.m. 30 August to 2:50 a.m. 31 August with TENG presiding and attended by YEH Chien-ying, FANG, HUANG Yung-sheng, WANG I-p'ing (王一平), LI Tso-p'eng, FANG Chiang, TSENG Sheng, and the two staff officers and the Soviet adviser. On 31 August TENG and his party returned to Hankow on the same plane.
2. In early September PU Sheng-kuang (卜盛光), head of the public security department of the Central and South China Military and Administrative Committee, and Li-ho-fu-hsin-szu (李撓夫辛斯), a Soviet adviser, inspected military installations in an area on the east bank of the Pearl River in south Kwangtung. During the inspection tour PU also established secret police organs known as the Military-Political-Industrial Joint Operations Stations (軍政工聯史工作站) in the area.
3. In late September an engineer battalion of the 4 Field Army, assisted by 500 civilian laborers, was constructing reinforced concrete fortifications in the Shench'uan-Puchi (布吉) area of the Canton-Kowloon railroad; 48 of these were completed and the rest were scheduled for completion on 15 October.
